DIGITAL PRESERVATION MATTERS

- The Digital Preservation Matters blog contains my personal reading notes / summaries of articles and resources on the Internet that I have read. The items are usually related to digital preservation or institutional repositories. The notes are also available through rss or email, which you can subscribe to on the blog site. I hope you find them useful.

DIGITAL PRESERVATION CONFERENCES

- If you are looking for a conference that discusses digital preservation topics, here are a few that we have attended in the past and would recommend as good sources of information on the subject. Are there others that you would recommend?

  - International Conference on Open Repositories
  - International Conference on Preservation of Digital Objects (iPres)
  - IS&T Archiving Conference
  - Others?
