

DSpace Meeting Room

The LYRASIS Zoom account has a DSpace meeting room which is available DSpace project teams, working groups or interest groups to use for meetings.

Code of Conduct

All DSpace meetings follow the LYRASIS Code of Conduct. We ask you to remain respectful in all discussions. We also encourage you to report any violations to LYRASIS (see Code of Conduct for details).

Scheduling a meeting in this room

Teams that wish to utilize this meeting room must contact Tim Donohue to add their meeting to the DSpace Public Events Calendar \(iCal version\). This ensures that multiple meetings will not overlap or schedule to use the Zoom meeting room at the same time.

DSpace Zoom Connection Info

When possible, it is recommended to join Zoom from a supported web browser (see Zoom System Requirements), using the URL below; or a standalone Zoom client, using the meeting ID below. This will allow you to also perform activities like screen sharing, audio/video recording, video chat, etc. That said, joining via telephone is also possible if you wish to only take part in the audio portion of the meeting.

Testing your Connection

If you'd like to test your Zoom connection prior to the meeting (to verify your web browser or computer will work), Zoom provides a Test Meeting : <https://zoom.us/test>

The Zoom Help Center also provides "getting started" resources to help you if you run into problems: <https://support.zoom.us/hc/en-us/categories/200101697-Getting-Started>
