1	40 mins	DuraSpace-DSpace MOU	https://docs.google.com/document/d/1OSblDimoYzTlebtg_krLYZnCVt8hHtqQOu7gtb4x_Dk/edit#heading=h.gjdgxs	Everyone
2	5 mins	DuraSpace Summit	Who's going to be there?; Star the conversation around topics for discussions during the sessions; reporting out; presentations etc.	Michele
3	10 mins	DSpace Github security vulnerability notifications	As of late 2018, GitHub has begun automated scanning of all third-party libraries/dependencies for known security issues. This is useful, but also results in false positives. Anyone using GitHub locally will likely have seen these. NYU was concerned that some of these issues might affect DSpace, and asked for an analysis	Tim

NOTES:

1. DuraSpace-DSpace MOU

- Welcome to Heather Greer Klein – New Project Manager
- Later in the evening, a smaller group will meet to finalise the MoU, the LG input will be taken into consideration
- The template of the MoU was developed for Vivo and will also be used by Fedora
- Erin: The legal Name of DuraSpace is actually "FedoraCommons", d/b/a means "doing business as"
- DSpace Community vs. DSpace Project – how to call it?
 - Erin: Both have been used in other documents, term should reflect the spirit of the governance groups;
 - John: projects often have a defined endpoint, therefore the term does not cover the "enduring" character of the DSpace community
 - Ceasar: however "project" has been used more often (see definition on website)
 - John: and "project" is also used for Fedora and Vivo
 - Susanna: Project includes community and software, should we mention this somewhere?
 - ArchiveSpace: They speak about "community", probably DuraSpace will be a community within Lyrasis
- John notes that some details are stated for 2019 - Does this mean we look at the MoU every year? Erin: Yes. Budgeting process at Lyrasis happens every year.
- Erin re. termination: DuraSpace is a charitable organisation. If DSpace wanted to leave, they would need to identify another NPO in US where DuraSpace could transfer assets to. This is due to articles of incorporation which a.o. state that assets cannot be transferred outside of the US. This mainly refers to trademarks and membership dollars, DSpace source code is free.
- Lieven re. termination: 90 days are a quite short period. An extension clause would be good. Erin agrees. Ultimately agreements should be over 3-4 years, not yearly. We could add language re. extension will be granted if the new organisation is not yet incorporated.
- Lieven: Are there any aspects or characteristics of the project that are currently not covered by "responsibilities"?
- Erin: We also need to add language about Lyrasis merger in the termination section. Or create a new "assignment" section. John: "Assignment" section would be more appropriate.
- Susanna: general language about assignments is better than a direct mention to a specific event (such as the merger with Lyrasis)
- Tim: Should we mention Heather's new role?
- Lieven: some aspects are very specific, e.g. 90% of a DuraSpace FTE for technical coordination
- John: That was the background to his question above: Why is the budget in the MoU? This is very specific for a MoU
- Erin: That's why details are in the appendix
- Erin to Lieven: if we want to include potential new roles, we could add change management language to cover this
- Pascal: the MoU misses to make clear that the strategic decisions are taken by the governance of the project. Also, the responsibilities of the governance should be defined in more detail.
- Erin: This could be covered in the Project Responsibilities section.
- Lieven: As an example, what happens if the Governance is not happy with the person that DuraSpace assigns as a tech lead?
- Erin: We could e.g. add that governance can provide performance evaluation assessment
- Salwa: To put this in more general terms, the MoU should define the feedback mechanism for things we are not happy with
- Erin: Language re. escalation process can be added
- Erin: The MoU is really a combination of a classic MoU and some more detailed sections. It includes change management and escalation process, which would normally be part of a project plan, but since we don't have such document, it makes sense to add these topics to the MoU.

2. DuraSpace Summit

- Please notify Michele if you will attend. So far, only John, Tim, Maureen, and Michele.
- Usually there is a governance meeting on the summit. Michele will circulate a google doc to identify topics we would like to talk about.
- Possibility to join remotely might be arranged, many LG members would appreciate this.
- Report out to the community is also required (last year, next year), Mic can put together some slides, somebody from LG needs to volunteer for presenting.

3. DSpace Github security vulnerability notifications

Call for volunteers

- NYU have received notifications from GitHub: Github released a feature where they scan every project for security vulnerabilities, known issues in third party tools popped up, quick analysis showed that most are probably false positives. The feature only looks at third party vulnerabilities. Might not have impact on DSpace. E.g. real vulnerability, but without impact on DSpace. NYU is still concerned, no staff for detailed analysis currently available due to Dspace7 development. Volunteers to look into this welcome.
- Some of the analysis requires developer knowledge of DSpace.
- Lieven and Salwa and John will reach out to their teams about help

4. Wrap up and next steps

- Salwa attended DuraSpace Board meeting and left reassured that DSpace and its international membership is an important topic to the Board. There will be a press release soon.
- Jyrki: Leadership Group has now access to the meeting notes of the Steering Group, see: <https://wiki.duraspace.org/display/dspacesteering/DSpace+Steering+Home>
- Pascal: The program of the German DSpace Anwendertreffen has been released
- Pascal: GDPR WG will have its first meeting on Friday
- Tim: good summary of Dspace 7 development schedule in last months Steering Group meeting minutes: <https://wiki.duraspace.org/display/dspacesteering/2019-02-20+DSpace+Steering+Group+Meeting>
- Michele: working with users groups and Google Scholar for country specific webinars re. indexing in GS: Brazil, Peru, Mexico, Germany
- Michele: New DuraSpace registered service provider from China
- Pascal: DSpace and Docker webinar was recorded, webinar had 55 attendees
