Notes

Clarity on what projects are committer-supported

1. Yes: vivo-project
2. No: vivo-community
3. Review of repos in vivo-project for whether they belong in vivo-project or vivo-community

VIVO Scholars

1. Goals (from core committers perspective)
   - Interest in bringing VIVO Scholars into core
   - Interest in making all ontology fields available
   - TAMU's approach towards mapping "all" of the VIVO ontology into a flattened model is very helpful
     - We should be able to represent all of the VIVO ontology
   - Things we like: UI fed from APIs
   - Things we like: GraphQL
2. GraphQL over SPARQL: hypergraphql
   - https://www.hypergraphql.org/
3. What would it look like to update VIVO's Solr to support the scholars-angular interface
   - For the sake of a proof-of-concept, the Freemarker UI may be broken
   - Obviously, we would not release in such a state
4. ACTION: Andrew to draft architectural diagram, including elements such as:
   - TPF, Solr, VIVO, Triplestore, UIs, Scholars
   - iterate with the team

Statement from Committers

1. Would be good to have an articulation from the core committer team
    - What we think VIVO is?
    - What we think VIVO should be, as it moves forward?
    - What is VIVO about?
2. Committers want to be a part of the strategic planning process
