Notes

1. Bruce Herbert sends his congratulations to the team on achieving the RC1 milestone.
- 2.
3. Release testing
  - a. Michel notes that the RC test forms are long and there is no option to save and resume.
    - i. Does not seem to be a Google feature, or maybe it would only be activated if multiple submissions are disabled
    - ii. There's no problem in submitting multiple submissions each with only part of the test filled out. Doesn't need to be completed in one sitting.
  - b. Should add link to 1.11 test results table for sample API submissions to use in 1.12 API tests
  - c. Michel notes that the UI test procedure also serves as a nice demo of the capabilities of VIVO. Would be nice to turn this into a kind of walkthrough for new users after testing is done.
  - d. Michel's testing of new i18n functionality largely successful, but uncovered a few bugs (especially 'no match to existing data property' errors when trying to edit certain existing values)
  - e. The capability map text search does not fall back to other language values: have to enter text in the language in which the interface is currently set. Should be made clear in the instructions.
4. UQAM's Vivo Studio discussion
  - a. ontology is at center of workflow
  - b. multiple types of users: librarian works on ontology/vocabulary and pushes to GitHub. Developer can use same environment to develop data ingest pipeline. Sysadmin can develop deployment environment.
  - c. Uses Eclipse plugins / update site / Maven approach to everything
  - d. Will be presented at the conference
  - e. Uses TopBraid Composer free edition
    - i. not (at least yet) open source, but could be interesting to explore potential for VIVO community to collaborate with TopBraid developers on maintenance of free edition.
