Accessing our Sandbox

Accessing our Sandbox

The Islandora sandbox is an online installation of Islandora running the most recent code. Every night the site is refreshed and all content is deleted. Several people may access the installation at once. In order to maintain security, some options available to a Drupal administrator are deactivated.

To access the Islandora Sandbox, visit http://sandbox.islandora.ca and login using the following credentials:

username: admin

password: islandora

This is an account that will allow you to see Islandora from the perspective of a user who would add and administer repository content. If you want additional access to feature and the code base, you can install the Islandora Virtual Machine Image on your local computer.
