Meetings

Meeting 01 - 2016-12-05

- 11am ET

Agenda

1. Introductions
2. Logistics
  - a. Virtual daily stand-ups?
  - b. IRC?
  - c. Conference calls?
  - d. Email check-in?
  - e. Sprint retrospective?
3. Sprint Priorities
4. Assign work

Minutes

1. Virtual Stand ups
  - a. IRC (freenode - #fcrepo)
  - b. Drop IRC template by 10am eastern the next day.
2. Calls
  - a. Wednesday morning meeting: 12/7 12pm Eastern - same line
  - b. Wednesday morning meeting: 12/14 12pm Eastern - same line
  - c. Friday 12/16 Retrospective Meeting: 2pm Eastern (no Andrew or Danny)
3. Sprint Priorities
  - a. Purpose of the 3 - minute video is to engage the community as well as provide an entry point for people to use the tools
4. Work Assignment
  - a. Justin to create ticket for verifying external binaries
    - Created
  - b. Can Kieran and Adam use Scholarsphere data to help test the tooling?
    - Yes. Adam to create the ticket
5. Note: The import export tooling runs against the API. Backup/Restore runs against Modeshape.
6. State of the Documentation:
  - Justin to update the import export format documentation; ensuring there are good pointers for getting to the documentation and docs actually are useful for enabling people to use the tool.
  - Justin to review Bag related tickets to make sure they cover what needs covering.

Meeting 02 - 2016-12-07

- 12pm ET

1. <https://github.com/fcrepo4-labs/fcrepo-import-export/pull/48>

Should we support mapping repository paths, not just host/port

Esmé Cowles - This ticket came out of integration test for round tripping, export and import into a different directory.

We had some allowance for different hostname ports, but base URI and everything else must be the same. At least the base URI could be modified in case of changed deployment.

While doing that Hydra already has various sub-directories, so that could be great. But it brings up issues. How do you handle if you export a resource, but not any linked resources.

Is it a requirement to be able to export a resource/tree of resources and then import it into a different location in a repository. This means we are changing the resource.

There is more complication, but it would be nice to do it. If we run into unsolvable problems, then we can stop. But baseURI as a minimum.

Verification tooling would have to be updated as it not designed to handle this circumstance. If there is a need for this, then we can correct this in the verification tooling.

Does this resolve the Phase 1 #6 wish. "Support import into an existing empty container."

We have been assuming that the container is going to be the same, host/port is a hard one to adjust for, changing base URI in Tomcat is somewhat easier.

Don't want to get sidetracked on this issue and not achieve the sprint goals.

Base Path is generally "/fcrepo/rest"

Ingesting in to a Hydra instance under /dev and then after verifying moving it to /prod.

Esmé Cowles will make a ticket or two and point to pull/48 as a first stab and move onto integration tests.

Final question "What would we want inter-resource relationships to look like." when ingesting to a new location. Principle was what would it look like if you exported the entire repository and import the entire repository. We haven't talk through all the possibilities, it would be good to make sure we agree on this.

2. Validation

<https://github.com/fcrepo4-labs/fcrepo-import-export-verify/pull/7>

Hope the PR is complete, Josh has not tested but feels it is almost there. The latest commit just changed the default logger level.

Should be able to test the latest version this afternoon and merge.

It would be great if that issue could be closed, and the config file as changed a bit and that needs to be dealt with.

Won't have working tool until the update to deal with new config file options. Should be a quick fix (possibly completed today).

Still haven't sorted out the issues around verifying RDF, filtering out server managed triples

Next person that runs in the "Too many open files in system" should document the steps in a new JIRA ticket.

Nick has done lubm and the 10k indirects and never run into this. Josh ran the one-click on his machine and he may have had other applications which could have used up some file handles.

Verification has some errors showing up, was kind of hard as import-export tool was constantly updating.

Perhaps not have both tools worked at same time would be good, but having lots of people around was helpful.

— Good —

IRC standups +++

3 java developers.

For some on their first sprint attending meetings and learning the processes was helpful.

Nice having for testers to have developers available to ask questions.

Nice to not be a Java developer so they could use the tool more like an end user.

4 new people jump in successfully

2 people doing user testing

— Bad —

code reviews could take some time

people in and out during sprint/travel ++

LoC Baglt stuff

JIRA made it hard to see what was going on (maybe an embedded jira chart on the sprint page).

Felt like there wasn't a lot to work on (for reviewing)

Using (clicking on) a JIRA label was handy once you figure it out.

Nice to have Andrew around

Working on import/export and verification at the same time might be more pain than its worth.

—Questions —

With import/export and verification would it have useful to have matching tags between the two products to synchronize. — dev was too fast at this point and there is no release for either.

— Next Steps —

Some stuff to get us to Stage 3

Lots of stakeholder feedback

Ready for a 0.1 release and have people try it out.

Leaving Bag profiles tickets open for now and have stakeholders verify that they are ready.

< whikloj> [Import/Export Standup]

10:19:59 < whikloj> Finished yesterday: Most of <https://github.com/fcrepo4-labs/fcrepo-import-export/pull/49>
10:20:13 < whikloj> Working on today:
10:21:13 < whikloj> Take audit log out of logback and back into code, turn off by default and make log directory a config parameter
10:21:17 < whikloj> Blockers:
10:21:38 < whikloj> None, but would be good to get some stakeholder feedback on the current work
